INSTRUCTIONS

This form of record has been prepared for the use of members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, as a suitable medium for concisely recording the most important events and dates in the history of families and individuals who are, or were, members of that Church.

Enter family groups in the index, the children in the order of birth. Two or more small families may be entered on one page of the index, leaving a line blank between each family. Maiden name of mother (wife) should always be given.

It is recommended that the family groups commence with the eldest of the line, who were members of the Church in life, and that the others follow in order of seniority.

The historical events in the life of each individual are to be entered on the page of the record stated in the index. In addition to the events for which the side headings are printed, other important occurrences should be recorded, such as other ordinations, missions, official appointments, etc. Prominent characteristics might be briefly described.

Married individuals whose names appear in the family groups as children, and also in another part of the record as parents, should be distinguished by a mark (X) appended to their names in the index.

If a man has more than one family, each family should appear as a separate group in the index.

The blank pages at the end of this book are provided for the purpose of inserting statements of importance in connection with the family history.

If the number of pages in this book are insufficient for recording all the families and individuals in the lines that the owner of the record desires to include, additional books can be obtained in which to continue such recording.

It is suggested that a member of the family be appointed historian to make the necessary entries in this record, and he, or she, should be given all data requisite for the purpose.

The foregoing instructions are to be regarded as merely suggestive; the owner of the record may, of course, follow any arrangement that will be most satisfactory to him, and include any families or individuals he desires to appear in the compilation.

In addition to the use of this record for individuals who were members of the Church in life, it is advised that the eldest representative of each family line obtain a record book in which to enter Temple ordinances performed in behalf of the dead, and that that sacred labor be faithfully prosecuted. Suitable blank record books for that purpose, can be obtained at the Deseret News Book Store.

Sample Pages of L. D. S. Family Record. The book is well bound and has 20 pages for family groups and index, 100 double pages for individual records, and 18 pages for historical notes, EXTRA HEAVY LEDGER PAPER; $1.25, post paid. On sale at Deseret News Book Store, 6 Main Street, Salt Lake City, Utah.

So indicate that a child is an ancestor of the family representative, place an "X" behind the number pertaining to that child.

Gordon and John Winterton. Later, George T. Giles sold his homestead of 80 acres to Joseph Taylor for $100, which doubled the size of the Taylor property.

By 1866, Indians had made life difficult in Provo Valley, and when the Black Hawk War broke out, settlers all over the valley banded together in Heber City for protection. Those in Charleston left their homes to seek the protection of a more populated area. Only the cattle were left behind, and many choice animals were shot or stolen by raiding Indian parties.

Late in 1867 the Indian difficulties subsided and some Charleston residents began moving back to claim their lands. Some new settlers also chose Charleston as their home, and by 1870 there were 15 families in the community.

Shortly after the city was resettled, steps were taken to secure a townsite on which a more compact community could be built. In 1873, twenty city blocks, each 26 rods square with four lots in a block were surveyed. The streets were surveyed to be six rods wide.

Indicative of the growth in Charleston is this newspaper report published in the Deseret News of May 2, 1873:

"Nymphas C. Murdock of Charleston, which is twenty-two miles from Provo and five miles from Heber City, called yesterday afternoon. He states that Charleston consists of about twenty-four families and that there is considerable farming land there still open to pre-emptors. A new brick meeting house is in the process of construction, and will shortly be completed. A small co-operative store is doing a good business, taking the produce of the people for goods and re-exchanging the produce again in other markets. Brother Murdock has charge of the store. There is no Post Office at Charleston yet, although it is on a direct mail route, but an application will soon be made by the people to the Department for that very essential convenience."

Charleston continued its civic growth as an unincorporated community for more than 20 years, and was ready for incorporation by December of 1899. The articles of incorporation were drawn up on December 30, 1899, with John M. Ritchie as president and William Daybell, G. W. Daybell, H. J. Wagstaff and George T. Baker as trustees. The first meeting of the board of the newly incorporated community was held January 10, 1900. Lucy A. Jacobs was named clerk with L. E. Barrows as town marshal.

During 1905 the community cooperated with Heber City and the county in building an electric power plant. A heavy debt was carried by the community for many years, but the plant became a successful venture and operated for several years. Joining again with the county in 1931 and 1932, Charleston officials bonded the community for $100,000 and helped rebuild the power plant. The plant was able to compete with commercial power prices and still pay good dividends to supplement community funds. With funds from the power plant, all streets in the
